THE COW COMES UP

The shortage of butter being what it is, to say nothing of intermittent threats of milk rationing, it is not surprising that the cow is entering into the society of her keepers. In a less civilized past it may have been all right to pay her no mind except to milk her twice a day, give her a friendly pat on the flank and turn her out to pasture. But these are times when the neighborhood butcher has become the glamor man of his community, only rivaled by a groceryman with bananas under the counter.

In keeping with the times, the board of trade at Jeffersonville, Ind., is planning a banquet next month at which the guest of honor will be a lady by the name of Dellinger Colantha Wild Rose, a cow among cows. Colantha has been recognized by the Holstein-Friesian World, a magazine devoted to the doings of cows, as the world's champion producer of milk. In 305 days, Colantha, without resort to strikes, gave up to her owner, Clark W. Dellinger 812 pounds of butterfat and 20,170 pounds of milk.

To honor such achievement, Colantha will be (well, perhaps not seated) at the banquet table next month. "If we can coax her into a few words, she ought to 'moo' 'em down,'" said a board official.

While Colantha thus leads the gay life at the banquet table, her companions of the barnyard may well be preening themselves for recognition that surely will come. What beauty salon will come forth with a complimentary mud bath for the fattest pig? And as for the steer, provider of luscious beef, who will pay for champagne and an orchestra of 500 violins? All playing "Home On the Range" and, by request, the "Cow-Cow Boogie."

AUTO OUTPUT GAINING

The automobile factories in Detroit and elsewhere are creaking along at a tempo that is expected to increase steadily if not spectacularly from now on. A million new cars and trucks have been manufactured since January 1 and, barring new strikes, output could conceivably be two million in the next six months.

The word from Detroit, as of the moment, is that suppliers of various parts and gadgets are coming through at an accelerated pace and remaining bottlenecks are expected to be eliminated without undue delay. All this does not mean that the prospective new car owner who is No. 679 on the waiting list will get a car next week. But it renews the hope that he may become the proud possessor of one of the new beauties before the old bus disintegrates entirely.

The domestic totalitarians are again talking of rationing meat. If they start rationing it in October, that should have the effect of separating a lot of them from the payroll in November.

There are days without end when it seems as if the statesmen find two difficulties for every solution.

SELLING OUT FRIENDS
What about Russia—the nation whose "friendship" we sought to buy by selling out our other friends? Has she showed gratitude, and eagerness for co-operation? Of course not. Russia, eminently practical, reasons quite simply that if we will betray races like the Finns and Poles, after the great responsibilities we took to them through the Atlantic Charter, then the time would come when we would also betray Russia. We have lost rather than gained in that quarter.

And what about ourselves? We have suffered most. Our national pride has been shamed. Once we felt that we always kept our word, that we stood by our friends, that we had the confidence of the world because we deserved it. Now we realize that, under certain types of leadership, we can be just as ruthless about breaking faith and promise as the most despicable of our enemies.

The present sentiment that we must, above all else, have a vast army and navy, undoubtedly rises in some degree from this national feeling of guilt. Putting it bluntly, we want to be strong enough to "shut up" anyone who tries to ask embarrassing questions.

This complex mixture of emotions, going deep into the field of psycho-analysis, is the background for another historic episode which is troubling Uncle Sam's conscience—and with good reason.

This troublesome event, which is assuming a larger and larger importance in the American mind, is the trial at Belgrade of General Draja Mihailovitch.

The outline of the case is simple, although much of it is so tangled that the whole story probably will not come out in the present generation.

When Yugoslavia was overrun by Germany, the United States and Great Britain did what they could to encourage a "resistance" movement there. The leader who rose up to conduct it was Gen. Mihailovitch. Through every means, we collaborated with him. Directly and by implication, we promised to support him after the war.

But Russia bet on another leader—Tito, who is a man, or series of men, responsive closely to orders in Moscow.

Through the aid of the Communists, the work of Gen. Mihailovitch was sidetracked for the Tito leadership. Now, as a means of consolidating the Tito government which Russia set up without consulting either America or Britain, Mihailovitch is to be "liquidated".

He is on trial on a charge of collaborating with the Germans during the occupation. This is a charge which no resistance leader anywhere could really escape. To hold office under the Germans, some collaboration was necessary. Tito himself, or at least trusted agents of his, unquestionably did many things to make the Germans believe he was on their side.

But a list of "offenses" has been compiled and Gen. Mihailovitch has been confronted with them. A confession to some of these is said to have been extorted by torture. A packed court, a packed jury, and a packed audience is going through a farce miscarried justice.

Where do we come in? Mihailovitch was our friend at a time and in a place where badly we needed a friend. While he was useful to us, we supported him. Now that he is no longer useful, the national government is permitting Russian agents to proceed with what has all the earmarks of legalized lynching.

Dozens of American agents penetrated Yugoslavia during German occupation to see and talk with Mihailovitch. They fully backed him up—until the Russian creation, Tito, took over. Mihailovitch has begged for the help of these on-the-scene American witnesses. His pleas have been ignored.

For the accounts, Mihailovitch now is a shell of a man, with little left to live for as a result of the "interrogations" he has undergone; his death is a comparatively small matter.

But if our national government has the means to clear him, and continues silent merely to appease Russia, there will be another serious blot on our national conscience.

Of all the evils this nation has suffered during the past dozen years, none is more tragic than the progressive debasement of public morality and idealism.

"Yes," said the sage, "we have come through the valley of despair to new peaks of achievement. You know, my friends, I was worried in 1933. For three long years we had been marching toward bankruptcy. But now for twelve short years we have been marching toward solvency. Look how we have added to our national assets. The debt which in 1933, was a heavy cross to bear, leading to bankruptcy, has now become a great investment. From now on, my friends, we can live on our debts."

"You're debt right, Chief," hollered the crowd. "From now on we will shingle our houses with debts. We will pay our bills with our debts."

"One thing more," said the sage. "When this war is over, we will disarm and lift from the shoulders of mankind the cruel burden of armament with which the war mongers have cursed the world throughout the ages. And now excuse me. I have another job to do. I must reform the Supreme Court."

The Chief turned back to his desk. And then a corps of Psychopaths came and examined the Crowd, each and every one, and pronounced them Dementia Nuts and committed them to the Asylum for Mental Cases, where they mingled with the venerable John Law in the Mississippi Bubble Ward.

Trooper J. J. Shovelin, of the Doylestown barracks of the State Police, and Assistant County Detective William L. Stackhouse, Doylestown, have begun an investigation when it was discovered that the plant of the LaFemme Hosiery Company, Furlong, was robbed of approximately 240 dozen pairs of nylon hosiery between 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when the plant shut down for operations for the week-end, and 7:30 o'clock Monday morning, when operations were resumed.

All of the hosiery taken over the week-end was in process of manufacture, and it is believed the thieves transported or will transport it to some other place to have it completed.

The mill, which is located on the Furlong-Edison road and which is owned by Milton R. Dobson and John Broadbent, manufactures the hosiery to a certain point, and then it is sent to another plant for completion.

According to Trooper Shovelin, the thieves entered the plant, in which about 20 persons are employed, by breaking a window on the west side of the building.

Russia and the United States became more deeply involved over press censorship. The ejection of an American reporter from Rumania was held to be a violation of the Potsdam agreement. The Russian chief of the UNRRA mission in Yugoslavia dismissed the American member over a disagreement about news releases.

Communists and Rightists in Japan's Diet attacked the proposed new Constitution.

India's Congress party approved the British long-range plans for independence, already supported by the Moslem League, but asked to negotiate anew on an interim regime.

The United States has freed Argentine gold frozen in the Federal Reserve Bank.

KNOW YOUR STATE

The recent flood along the Susquehanna River and on some of the western rivers of the State has emphasized the greatly increased efficiency in Pennsylvania's flood forecasting service during the past ten years.

Widespread spring floods are always caused by extensive rainfall. During May of 1946 approximately 7½" of rain fell in Harrisburg, which is approximately twice the normal rainfall. Toward the close of May the rainfall grew more intense and falling as it did on wet ground, the run-off was rapid and made flood conditions inevitable.

In order to provide adequate warning of approaching floods the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, the United States Weather Bureau and the United States Geological Survey entered into a cooperative agreement in 1937. Under this agreement gauging stations located in more than one hundred areas throughout the Commonwealth measure the extent and distribution of the rainfall. Stream gauging stations measure the height of the streams. Under normal conditions reports from these gauges are received daily. By the cooperative service they are analyzed with the aid of charts which interpret the height of water in terms of stream flow.

At the time of threatened floods these gauging station reports and weather reports are received every two hours. A special short wave radio system is maintained by the State for transmitting these reports. This ultra-high-frequency radio communication, which covers the entire Susquehanna River Basin, not only serves as a system of flood warning, but is also operated when necessary to transmit information as to forest fires.

On the lower reaches of the State's rivers the forecasting of flood stages reaches its greatest accuracy, because the amount of water flowing from each of the tributaries is known and the speed of flow can be computed from that data. Toward the headwaters of the stream the prediction of the height and duration of floods is much more difficult, since the effect of sudden rainfalls is felt within a few minutes or a few hours. In the upper portion of the streams a flood forecast must be based not so much on water already known to be flowing in the streams as upon the expected rainfall. The forecasts of the Weather Bureau as to the changing storm pattern over the area must be constantly considered, and the forecasts for upper river stations changed with every change in the pattern.

While it is now possible to eliminate flood dangers altogether, the State's program of reforestation and flood control will in the future greatly diminish the dangers of disastrous floods to our industrial cities, and the technique of flood prediction developed in the past ten years has already done much to diminish the losses of property and life which occurred in the past when an extensive flood disrupted communications and threatened our cities with perils, the extent of which could not be foreseen.

service attached to the British 8th Army in Asia Minor, and the Free French in North Africa. Mr. Eastburn spoke in glowing terms of the loyalty and service of women in the Red Cross, and of the whole-hearted effort of those honored last evening. The Red Cross was invaluable to our troops, he said. Then reminding that "Some of you have been with the Red Cross through two wars," he commented that "This is a terrible commentary on our civilization, that two such holocausts should be permitted to occur in one lifetime."

It is Mr. Eastburn's opinion that the Red Cross can do "a marvelous work in war prevention." "If we can make the Red Cross international and help do away with wars, we will have accomplished much," speaking of manifestation of intolerance on the part of individuals and some organizations, he mentioned the activities of the Ku Klux Klan. "Such intolerance has no place in our country. If we can't prevent internal strife, how are we going to be internationally-minded? Why can't we get together, forget politics and prejudices? A man is a man whether he is black or white."

If we want international unity we'll have to think along those lines. We all have to stick together for peace, or we'll all in this atomic age be blown to pieces."

Mrs. Watts re-echoed from the sessions of the national convention of the Red Cross just closed in Philadelphia, the "great potentialities of the Red Cross in cementing the world in peace and friendship."

Mrs. DeLong presented to Mrs. Marie Holland, home service supervisor of this Red Cross district, a beautiful cameo pin, a gift from members of the board of directors, in appreciation of "service beyond what is expected in line of duty."

Tribute was paid by Mrs. DeLong, a member of the Selective Service board, No. 1, located in Bristol, and a Mrs. Frank Lohr, state nurse, for their aid to Red Cross. Mrs. DeLong mentioned that certain pins presented last evening for Red Cross work represent 500 hours of work, with each bar attached also representing 500 hours more. She was assisted in presentation of certificates by Girl Scouts, who also aided in the serving of refreshments.

The numerous services of Red Cross in this area were mentioned, such as knitting, sewing, canteen, surgical dressings, blood donors, nurses, aids, home nursing, home service, first-aid, junior Red Cross, volunteer special services, disaster relief, etc.

Three young local musicians delighted with selections. Miss Janice Leinen, accordionist, played "Clarinet Polka" and "Repas Band." Miss Louise Thorne, pianist, offered "The Booklet" (Heller), and "Clare de Lune" (de Bussy); and Robert Veery provided his own banjo accompaniment as he sang "Cool Waters," "Ragtime Cowboy Joe" and "My Little Buckaroo."

Certificates were presented by Mrs. DeLong to the following: Mrs. Marie Bonafant, Mrs. Wood Welch, Mrs. Clarence Moyer, Mrs. Russell DeLong, Mrs. Franklin Wallin, Mrs. John Burton, Mrs. E. ## WELL-DEFINED EYEBROWS LEND EXPRESSION TO YOUR FACE

Singing Comedienne Beatrice Kay has well-groomed brows.

By Helen Follett

For a number of years, too many in fact, it looked as if eyebrows were a drug on the market. They were not just weeded; the whole growth was uprooted. Some of our whoopla young ladies shaved their forehead ornaments, resorted to a crayon so they could produce an exotic design. Critics expressed themselves scornfully and a lot of good it did them.

Some enthusiastic weeders now want to get back to the normal pattern, find that the devastated regions will not produce. Tweezing over a long period can so injure the papillae that new shafts will not emerge. Friction with mineral oil are present.

Well-Defined Brows

Well-defined eyebrows, beautifully arched, give character and expression to the face. They make lovely eyes prettier, ordinary eyes more lustrous. Every girl is not qualified to know just what form these little scimitars should take. It won't do to be a copy cat, try to reproduce those of the favorite movie star.

Everything depends upon the shape of the eyes and the facial contour. It is well worth while to consult a beauty specialist, as one consults a hair stylist when the old arrangement appears to be out of date.

If the eyelashes are short and the growth scanty, friction them lightly every night and morning with mineral oil. Many times they will respond quickly to this treatment. If a little of the oil remains on the eyelids, so much the better. It will make the eyes look dewy. Dewy eyes have a way with them, especially with the susceptible sterner sex.

Clipping the lashes will not make them grow as some of the young fry fancy. The little fuzzers push out from the roots, tiny scales overlapping one another.

pocket-book as she paid the driver just before getting out of the cab at her home. "I went in the house, and as I was preparing for bed missed the one ring. I notified the cab company in Trenton, and I was later informed the driver denied having the ring. I was told it was found in his possession. The story as given by the driver was that I had not paid him my fare and that was the reason he had held onto the ring. But I did pay him, something less than $5 the trip cost."

According to Mrs. Fischel she had the ring back three days after it was missing.

"To me the ring is priceless. Jewelers estimate its value at $9,000. It is made up of selected stones."

Attempts on the part of The Courier to contact either of Trenton's two taxi inspectors during the past four days have been fruitless. In several attempts the telephone ring on their extension was not answered and on one occasion The Courier was informed the inspectors had a day off. Suggestion that the office of the police chief be contacted as information would be filed there proved of no avail, the reply being that the person speaking had no authority to give out such information, although admission was made report of the case was on file there.

In earlier news releases it was stated that the taxi driver, William L. Conroy, was still waiting for his fee from the Bucks Co. woman. Conroy allegedly having found the ring in his cab.

The ring is said to have contained 147 diamonds set in a half-inch band of platinum.

Earlier releases quoted Mrs. Fischel as having said she gave a reward to the taxi inspectors, the same releases carrying retorts of inspectors to this news as "preposterous."

Horse Drowns After It Crashes Into A Well

ANDALUSIA, June 26—A saddle horse owned by William Rever, and which had been missing since the previous day, was found drowned in a well on the property of Frank Vattimo, Tennis avenue, on Saturday.

The horse in some manner got out of its stall on Friday. It is believed that it fell into the well during the night, crashing through thin boards which covered the well.

Boys of the neighborhood, who have been caring for the horse and exercising it daily while Mr. and Mrs. Rever are in Florida, searched for the animal to no avail. Mr. Vattimo, who recalled hearing a noise during the night, went to the well and found the horse dead.

A derrick was used to remove the animal.

"Dessert Bridge" Party Is Novel Idea for Summer

A busy party season is forecast for Summer 1946! There will be much to celebrate, and many folks will have more time to get together with their friends.

Bridge parties will be in style again—both the daytime parties that are strictly feminine affairs, and parties planned for mixed groups in the evening.

An easy and popular way to solve the refreshment problem is to make it a "dessert bridge," says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. While it is appropriate for either daytime or evening parties, this plan will be especially appreciated in the evening, for your guests will not have to serve any dessert for dinner at home that night! (If there are kids staying at home, they'll be perfectly happy with canned fruit and store cookies).

The following suggestions for party desserts do not require an exorbitant amount of sugar, and they are decorative as well as delicious. Serve them on your prettiest plates, and give them whatever spring trimmings your heart desires! Of course, coffee should be served with any one of these dishes:

Brownies a la Mode

1/2 cup sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup lard
2 squares chocolate, melted
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Sift flour and salt together, melted chocolate and stir until well blended. Beat whole eggs until light and fluffy; add sugar gradually, beating after each addition. Add egg mixture to chocolate mixture and fold in flour, nuts and vanilla. Bake in oiled shallow pan for 25 to 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Cool and cut in squares. Serve with a scoop of vanilla, strawberry, or butter crunch ice cream on top of each square. Prepared chocolate sauce (just a spoonful) may be poured over the ice cream if desired.

Pineapple Angel Tarts

2 1/2 cups Lard Pie Mix
4 to 6 tablespoons ice water
1 cup chopped pineapple
1 cup pineapple juice or water
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup cold water
3 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 pint whipping cream
Maraschino cherries

And water to pie mix, a small amount at a time, mixing quickly and evenly until dough just holds in a ball. Roll on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Line small tart pans, crimp edges, and prick pastry. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes.

Combine pineapple, juice and sugar and bring to boil. Stir in cornstarch mixed with cold water. Cook until very thick and clear, stirring constantly. Cool. Beat egg whites with salt until creamy; continue beating while adding sugar. Fold into pineapple mixture. Pour into

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Most washables need only 20 minutes of soaking. Too much soaking tends to open fibers and permits soil to become lodged deeply. For best results, rinse washables in a porcelain enameled dish pan, omitting lengthy soaking.

Porcelain enameled kitchen utensils clean like magic because of the mirror-like finish. So all you need do is to soak pots and pans in soapy water, and then give them a

LIVESTOCK

Professional Production of "You Touched Me" Arranged

NEW HOPE, June 26.—The first professional production in this vicinity of "You Touched Me," the comedy by Tennessee Williams, author of the Pulitzer prize play, "The Glass Menagerie," and Donald Windham, will be seen at the Bucks County Playhouse, here, on Monday evening, July 1st. The play will continue throughout the week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"You Touched Me" is based on a short story by D. H. Lawrence about a retired sea captain and his conflict with the conventional ideas of his family. The role of the boisterous old captain, created by Edmund Gwenn in the Broadway production staged by Guthrie McClintic, will be played by Sidney Blackmer, versatile stage and screen actor. Mr. Blackmer was last seen on Broadway in "Chicken Every Sunday," and has agreed to appear in that play at the Bucks County Playhouse the week of July 5th. Mr. Blackmer will be supported in his role in "You Touched Me" by Donald Murphy in the part of a young aviator who elopes with the captain's daughter, played by Judith Parrish.

FLEETWINGS TAKES NOSE-DIVE BEFORE "HIBOES" PITCHING

Berry Breaks Strike-Out Record of Suburban League

BLANKS 17 BATTERS

Two Hits Was the Best The Wingers Could Do With Berry

Fleetwings pennant hopes took a nose-dive last evening on Leedom's field as Joe Berry broke the Suburban League strike-out record for the season by whiffing 17 of the airplane workers batters in pitching the Hibornians to a 5-1 victory.

Two hits was the best the Wingers batters could do with the hooks of Berry. Sodano had a single in the seventh and Snyder doubled in the ninth. Snyder scored the only run. For six innings, Berry pitched a no-hitter. In the nine innings, only 30 batters faced the Burlington hurler.

ENLISTS IN NAVY

F. Esposito, Franklin street, has enlisted in the U. S. Navy for two years. He will go on duty July 4th.

Waiting is tough on us, too

For months we've been hoping to present each and every one of you with the new Packards you've ordered, and have been waiting for so patiently.

Last fall, the outlook was good. Packard was confident it would double its pre-war output in 1946. (The factory is equipped to turn out far more than that.)

Look what has happened!

Then came material shortages. Parts shortages. For reasons completely beyond its own control, Packard was able to keep its assembly line moving only nine days in the first quarter of this year.

In the meantime . . .

Our friends have kept calling us up and asking, "Hey! Where's that new Packard I ordered weeks ago?" Many of these are old friends—Packard owners since 'way back.

But to make life more complicated, everybody seems to want one of these grand new Packards. Over 65% of the people out to buy new Packards are now driving some other make.

Honest, it's gotten so we hate to answer the telephone or look our friends in the face. But . . .

Your patience will pay off!

One of these days, the shortage of parts and materials is bound to ease up. And when it does, those twin-assembly lines at Packard will really roll.

Anyway, you can depend on this:

As fast as the factory ships cars to us, we'll do everything we can to deliver yours at the earliest possible moment.

So, we hope you'll be patient a little longer. We're doing the best we can, and so are the folks at the factory!
